When the Duke of Wellington was alive he swore like the army in Flanders of his own and Marlborough's day but in the screen version of the House of Rothschild he is quoted as saying "Dash-dash." Tennyson was right when he said of him "The last great Englishman is dead."

Rev. Father Coughlin has become so powerful in the United States that it is a serious thing for even President Roosevelt to cross him, let alone double-cross him, and so the secretary of the Shrine of the Little Flower made a good investment when she invested some of the funds of the Shrine in silver, in anticipation of Presidential action boosting the price of the white metal.

Lady Dorothy Hood thinks there is great extravagance in "people owning motor cars who would never have aspired to a horse." If there were no motor cars, and people had aspired to a horse, what a market the farmers would have had! But people would not have aspired to a horse. That would mean a stable, cleaning it and the horse, buying hay and oats. The town or city man would have felt he couldn't afford such extravagance. He has a car and garage and buys oil and gasoline instead of hay and oats. Very few of the many who own motor cars would have aspired to a horse had there been no such thing as a motor car.

Henry Ford says that the big thing have been and will be done by men over forty. That gives us a line on his own age.

As a fact, however, persons over forty must do big things so that youth may be served.

Seeing that in one way or another everyone is using it, why call it daylight saving.

Mr. Sam Insull admits he made a mistake, which shows that he has no

Box Lacrosse Introduced To Vulcan Sport Fans

Calgary Shamrocks and Lethbridge Play on May 24; Vulcan Defeats Nanton Players

Sports celebrations on Victoria Day ended with an exhibition of box lacrosse in the Vulcan arena. Field lacrosse had been played in Vulcan before, but this was the first taste of box lacrosse that the sport fans of Vulcan ever witnessed locally. The Vulcan Elks obtained two of Alberta's best teams for the introduction of the game—the Calgary Shamrocks and Lethbridge. Calgary won the game with a 11-8 score and at no time in the game were they in danger of losing.

During the first two periods of play the north city men had things pretty well their own way. During the last two Lethbridge came somewhat ahead and had the score tied towards the end of the game. But Calgary seemed to be able to handle them at will and quickly piled up the necessary tallies for a safe victory.

The two hundred and some fans that attended the game were given a good exhibition of the sport and were thrilled at the clever way the experienced players could manipulate the ball with the netted sticks.

During the rest periods the Nanton and Vulcan players assisted by a few players from each of the city teams showed their wares. Although most of them were green at the game, yet it was remarkable to see the advancement they had made in the sport in so short a time. Vulcan won the game by one point margin. Vulcan boys playing: L. Granlin, S. Rutten, G. Simington, C. Peacock and A. Marshall. They were assisted by two Calgary players. In the Nanton group C. Caspell, F. Thom, L. Howden, K. Gahns, B. Richardson and R. Wier. Nanton was assisted by the Lethbridge goalie.

VICTORIA DAY CELEBRATED HERE

Vulcan Lodge No. 121 B.P.O.E. Sponsor Affair That Has Many Entertaining Features

Victoria Day has passed again for another year and with it another successful celebration under auspices of the Vulcan Lodge No. 121, B.P.O.E. The various sporting events of the day proved entertaining and these are reported in these columns this week under their own headings, a departure from former years when the complete celebration was reported under one heading. Over 1100 people in all attended the event, perhaps not as large a crowd as in former years, but still the sponsors are satisfied and find the venture falling away from the red side of the books. Those who attended the celebration seemed well pleased with everything in the sport line, the novelty of the day being, of course, the box lacrosse game in the evening. During the afternoon the Vulcan band played selections at intervals and Bandmaster R. H. Weale and his group had a splendid variety of numbers on hand for the crowd.

People attended from all the points in the district and many Nanton residents were to be seen in the numbers, some former residents of Vulcan. The lacrosse teams from both Calgary and Lethbridge brought with them a following of fans.

Sports were provided for the kiddies during the first ball game and prizes were in the form of tickets that gave ice cream and candy to the holders at the refreshment booth. These booths were naturally busy selling good things to eat and cool drinks all afternoon for the day was hot and everyone seemed to have an appetite.

Vulcan High School Team Again Defeats Champion

Win Fourth Straight Game; Head League Without a Loss

On Monday evening the Champion and Vulcan High School baseball teams clashed on the local diamond, playing a game postponed from Friday. Vulcan overwhelmed the visitors by a 15-0 score, their first shut-out of the season. The game was really not as ragged as the score would lead one to think. Clean and quick playing were the features of the game. No home runs were scored. Dee Snow hit the box for Vulcan hurled a wonderful game, allowing the opponents only two hits.

Phil Bastin worked hard in the box for the south town team but had to be relieved first by McCullough and then by Dick Latiff when Vulcan went on a scoring spree in the eighth inning, scoring eight runs.

Champion players seemed to be jinxed. Bastin was accidentally hit by Robson as he stepped across home plate. A ball thrown by Dee Snow hit McCullough on the head while at batting and later in the game he was forced to retire when again hit.

The boys of the local team are somewhat disappointed with the support the citizens of the town are giving them. The Advocate learns that they are hardly making running expenses. Possibly the majority have the impression that because it is junior baseball that it is no good. If so, they are mistaken; very good baseball is being given. Perhaps some stiffer opposition would attract the fans, as it appears to date that Vulcan is having their own way in the league. Mr. Allred, manager and coach, states that he is arranging some exhibition games with towns on the Macleod-Aldersyde line in the near future. Champion—Battery, McCullough and Gottenberg; P. Bastin, McLean, D. Latiff; Campbell, Latiff, Hargreaves, A. Littiff, Gottenberg, A. Ulrich, Caldwell and McLean.

Vulcan—Battery, Robson and Snow Harper, Lundgren, Craig, Kock, Deal, Ulrich, McCartney.

The Vulcan softball team, through these columns, wish to challenge any team in the south of the province. No doubt this challenge will be taken up by some well balanced teams that will offer stiff opposition to the locals. If so, some good games can be assured.

J. Denneus Loses Life In Gasoline Blaze Sunday

Lives Six Hours After Terrible Accident; Anton Denneus Badly Burned

Home of the Denneus family, scene of several tragedies within the past few years, situated nine miles southwest of Milo, was again thrown into sorrow early Monday morning as a result of an accident Sunday evening which caused the death of Jacob Denneus. He was severely burnt with gasoline and died after several hours of suffering at the Vulcan hospital. Anton Denneus, Jacob's brother, was badly burned as a result of the accident and at the present time is a patient in the hospital. Others at the scene escaped injury.

Around nine o'clock in the evening Alton Denneus and his brother drove the farm truck over to a nearby neighbor, Clarence Wagar, for the purpose of obtaining some gasoline to place in the tank on the vehicle. Mr. Wagar had several drums of gasoline on the slope of a hill and the truck was placed a short distance away for the purpose of the operation. A pail was used for the purpose of carrying the liquid from the drum to the car and one of the party had a lantern to gauge the fullness of the pail. One pail was taken to the truck and the second pail was about half full, and although precautions were taken to keep the lantern at a distance, the fumes of the gasoline ignited. Jacob Denneus was the nearest to the centre of the scene and in the confusion to get away from the fire the drum from which the liquid was being poured was dropped and holocaust resulted. Mr. Wagar and his son escaped and Anton received bad burns on the legs. The truck took fire and was completely burned, and all the fuel exploded with the exception of thirty gallons of tractor fuel. Some six drums of gasoline were lost.

Those of the group who escaped from the flames, could not reach the victim due to the terrific heat and danger. After the flames had receded they could not find Jacob and in some manner he had gone to a dugout in the hillside where he was found shortly after.

Both Anton and Jacob were rushed to the hospital by neighbors, the latter succumbing at four o'clock Monday morning.

Funeral services were held from the St. Andrew's Catholic church on Wednesday morning. Interment was made in the Vulcan cemetery.

The deceased leaves to mourn his passing, four sisters, Mrs. Geo. Dueses, Eva, Rose and Monica, and four brothers, John, Anton, George and Adam. His father and mother predeceased him.

Berrywater District Resident Passes

William Houghton

Berrywater and surrounding districts were grieved to hear of the sudden death of Mr. William Houghton on Friday last. He was 55 years of age. Mr. Houghton was born in London, England, and came to Ontario at an early age. After some years of residence in that province he travelled west to Alberta, taking up homestead land in the Berrywater district in 1906, where he has since been a resident.

Mr. Houghton was rather of a retiring type of man, not taking part in public affairs, although well liked and respected.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. W. Bartlett of Calgary and Mr. Bartlett a brother-in-law, also two brothers, Herbert of Edmonton, and Alfred of Lumbford, Alberta. Another sister resides in England. Mr. Houghton was unmarried.

Last rites were held from the Aldhelm's Anglican church on Monday Rev. V. E. Smith conducting. Interment was made in the Vulcan cemetery. Many of the old time residents and neighbors of the deceased from the Berrywater district were present.

The regular baby clinic of the Okotoks-High River Health Unit will be held in the Vulcan United Church hall on Monday, June 4th from 1.30 to 5.

Vulcan Loses One Game And Win One May 24th

Champion Defeats Locals 14-6 in First Game; Vulcan Wins from Arrowwood 10-5

The Vulcan senior baseball team played two games on Victoria day in the programme of the celebration. The first game started at 1.30 o'clock opening the day's programme of sport. Champion and Vulcan played the former winning the game by a 14 to 6 score. The game was ragged in spots, yet it was a fairly good exhibition of ball and some wonderful plays were made, both in the field and at the plate, by both teams.

Vulcan led the play until the fourth inning when they "blew up" with a display of errors that lasted throughout the game. Earl Robson in the pitcher's box for the locals played a good game, but he lacked support in the field and at bat. In the ninth inning Harper hit a well-placed home run that scored another base runner. This was the bright spot in the game as far as the locals were concerned.

Champion collected 18 hits out of 40 times at the plate, while Vulcan obtained 12 out of 37 times to the plate. This is the third defeat the locals have suffered in the hands of Champion this season.

Vulcan—Battery, Rutten and Robson; Harper, Woodward, Kock, Snow, Craig, Allred and Recor. It will be noted that, with the exception of Recor, Allred, Rutten and Woodward, the team is made up of high school players.

Champion—Battery, Watts and Steele; Campbell, Bouzyan, Kulpas, Latiff, Bastin, Anderson, Hamilton and A. Latiff.

Result of the second game of the day was different to the first and the locals came out on the top of a 10 to 5 score playing against Arrowwood. It was a fairly fast game and lacked the errors that predominated the opening exhibition. Each team had only two errors against them at the end of the game.

Many spectacular plays gave the fans plenty of thrills and possibly the most exciting of these was a home run made by McCullough of Arrowwood on an error by Craig of Vulcan, but Craig righted his error as far as the fans were concerned on his first time up to bat, when he knocked a hot one into the race track for a tour of the bases, McCullough hit another home run before the end of the game as did Sharpe for Arrowwood and Rutten for the locals.

Allred in the pitcher's box for Vulcan staged a comeback for this season's play and allowed only 8 hits to Vulcan's 15. He struck out 13 men. Sperline started in the box for the visitors and was replaced by Bowman in the fourth inning.

The line-up for Vulcan was the same as the first game with the exception of the change in the battery, Recor and Allred. The Arrowwood line was: Battery, Norton, Sperline and Bowman; Hales, McCullough, Mason, Millet, D. Bowman, Sharpe, Archambault.

NEAR DROWNING AT THE LITTLE BOW RIVER

A near drowning resulted at the Little Bow river swimming place, west of Vulcan, during the Victoria Day holiday. Two young lads, nine and eleven years of age, were in the rowboat when it suddenly capsized throwing both under water. The older of the two managed to grasp the overturned boat, but the younger, a son of Harvey Kock of Nanton, went down. Mrs. Dave McAfee of Vulcan, happened to be the only older person on hand at the time, and she swam to the lad and managed to rescue him after he had gone down the third time. After working over the boy for about three minutes, Mrs. McAfee with the aid of others who were nearby playing softball, brought him around. The Advocate joins with everyone in commending Mrs. McAfee for her quick action in the rescue and for the first aid given the boy when brought to shore.

CROPS SUFFERING LACK MOISTURE

Another Week Without Rainfall Menaces Vulcan District Crops; Warm Weather Hatches Hoppers

During the past week the crops in the Vulcan district have seriously suffered from the lack of moisture and the hot weather, and this coupled with the grasshopper pest, makes the menace to the crops a double one. Every day during the week from Wednesday to Wednesday, the sun has been shining unmercifully on the growing crops. Towards the evening of every day clouds have appeared, but the high winds have made these disappear. Stubbled in grains are suffering most from the menace, but within the past few days the summerfallow has shown signs of burning. The stubble field suffers most from the grasshoppers, too. Mixers at the hopper poison station have been working night and day turning out the dope and the farmers are working frantically to combat the pest. Hopper damage is the worst in the district to the south and east of town. Fields north and west have been reported cleaned-up by the hoppers, but not to the extent as southward.

Vulcan Wins Softball Tournament at Celebration

Defeat Nanton and Brant in Feature of Victoria Day Celebration

Vulcan's softball team decked out in new maroon colored sweaters made their initial appearance of the season in a tournament played on the local diamond as part of the Victoria Day celebration under auspices of the local Elks' lodge. Honors of the day went to the Vulcan Maroons, as they have named themselves, by defeating both the Nanton and Brant teams. Brant won the bye in the three team layout and Nanton and Vulcan played the first game.

Nanton 8—Vulcan 9

Vulcan won the toss and was given first field position. The first inning was blank for both teams. Nanton opened the scoring in the second stanza with two carefully placed hits that gave them a two run lead. This lead, however, was short lived. Vulcan immediately scored three runs to reverse matters. Earl Robson, hurler, in the next inning, performed a feat never equalled in softball here before, by striking the opposition out with only nine balls pitched. In the same inning, with the bases full, Robson started a stampede that brought in five runs. He made a beautiful three-bag hit. The locals led 8-3 at the end of this inning. Nanton came back strong and held Vulcan to one more run during the balance of the game, while they scored five to make the final score 9-8. During the game a decision given by the umpire was disputed by the players and fans, and some delay was caused, but the matter was quickly cleared away.

Brant 9—Vulcan 19

Vulcan met their old rivals in the second game of the day, Brant, and a far more interesting and cleaner game resulted than in former times when these two teams clashed. Although Brant came out on the short end of the scoring feast, yet they played an excellent game and gave the Maroons some stiff opposition. The Vulcan players were right on their toes throughout the game and at no time did the game leave their control. Features of the game were four home runs made by Fletcher of Brant, McDonald, Beeching and Robson of Vulcan. Clarke Fletcher starred for the visiting team and Earl Robson in the box for the Maroons. Team work in the field was well executed by both the teams. The final score was 9-19 in favor of Vulcan.

Fans of the game are now awaiting the opening of the district league, so that more games of the like played on the 24th may be enjoyed.

News Items Gleaned Around the Town

R. L. Elves accompanied by Clifford McAskill, John Jamieson and Albert Collier, attended the Oxford Group meeting held in the Palliser hotel at Calgary on Tuesday evening of last week. They report the meeting as being instructive and enjoyable. A large crowd attended and packed all available space in the ballroom.

Hot weather has turned one's mind to the swimming hole at the Little Bow and with this in mind the local Elks' lodge are preparing for the season's activities. Members of the lodge are asked to be on hand on Wednesday June 6th, when a work party will be formed and will journey to the river to make repairs to the dressing rooms and the dam.

In the last issue of the Advocate it was wrongly stated that the contest conducted by the Rodney's Service Station would last for one week. This contest was arranged for one day only, May 24th, and has now been concluded and the winner announced. The Advocate sincerely regrets any inconvenience caused by this mis-statement, either to Mr. Rodney or anyone taking part in the contest.

Advertising circulars have this week been received from the committee in charge of the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede, this year being held from the 9th till the 14th of July, by the Vulcan Advocate. In former years Vulcan district has provided splendid patronage of this yearly established event, and no doubt this year the usual quota of patronage will be provided this year.

E. B. Siler of Champion is the lucky winner of a pair of tires in the guessing contest conducted by the Rodney Firestone Service on May 24th. The correct mileage the tire travelled was 48,692 and the winners estimate 47,153. He was 1,539 miles out on the correct mileage. A large number took advantage of the contest and placed guesses. The declaring of winner was in the hands of an Elk committee.

A wrong impression was created by the wording of the advertisement of C. S. Evernden in the last issue of the Advocate. The special feature of the advertisement for the three day period was the Ethyl gasoline, while the prices on the Turner Valley naphtha were regular prices good from the date of the issue until further notice. The advertisement was worded as to appear that the Turner Valley Naphtha prices were good only for the three day period mentioned in the ad.

Members of the Vulcan Young People's Society sponsored a pancake supper on Victoria Day, May 24th, and shared a goodly amount of patronage in the "eats" line on that day with the booths on the grounds and the town cafes. Mrs. Wm. Peterson was chief pancake maker, and was assisted by girls of the organization. Maple Syrup and coffee were the trimmings with the pancakes. The amount taken in was not as large as anticipated, yet a fair balance remained after the expenses were paid.

During the absence of the pastor, Rev. P. G. McPherson, on Sunday, the services at Berrywater and at the United Church in evening were taken over by the Young People's Society. In the morning the Sunday school had charge of the service and Mr. Irvine, superintendent, delivered the message assisted by the various members of the Sunday school. The junior choir provided the music. The services in charge of the young people were under the chairmanship of Junior Harback. John Jamieson delivered the message, assisted by Miss Ethel Campbell with scripture reading, and Miss Mayme Lebeau with prayer. Vocal music was provided by the senior choir in the form of an anthem, the girls of the choir also sang an anthem. Miss Jean Warden rendered a solo selection and a quartette selection was given by Misses Jean Warden, Rose Hartwig, Mr. R. H. Weale and Mr. William Walker.

GOING ORNERY

One word which is very expressive and frequently heard these days is the word "ornery." One hears it on every side, either as a charge against oneself or against society. "I am ornery," "thou art ornery," "they are ornery."

"Orneriness" is an outward and visible sign of an inward spiritual state. It is a condition aggravated by grasshoppers, drought, governments, and such distresses. But after all, it starts with ourselves, is endured by ourselves and those with whom we are in contact, without in any wise altering those external irritations which aggravate it. There is no denying that there is sufficient provocation for ruffled dispositions. Disappointments and discouragements have hounded most people until the mainsprings of laughter, spontaneity and geniality are beginning to run down. We are growing shorter in temper, quicker to imagine slights that do not exist, taking grim pleasure in disagreement, and right on our toes to buck anything anytime.

But after all, what does it get us? Nothing except the reputation of being good people to avoid. Most of our happiness comes from our ability to live on friendly, harmonious terms with ourselves and those with whom we are in immediate contact. Yet we vent our general discouragement on those nearest to us, who are in no sense responsible for the condition of things, and who also have their troubles quite as serious as our own. When we yield to the natural but very disagreeable habit of "ornerness" we bring more unhappiness to entirely innocent people whom we really like and depend upon, and more unhappiness to ourselves.

One of our local people says he makes a tremendous effort to hold steady, by doing his best in everything for which he is himself responsible, and refusing to worry about anything else. This is a philosophy which few of us have yet been able to attain. If obligations were exacted on this basis, it would be more easy to accept calmly the blows of fate. But unfortunately one's best is not good enough at times to meet the demands made upon us.

But most of us could discipline and watch ourselves much more sternly than we do. We could go farther than we do in suppressing personal moods of discouragement and orneriness. We can refrain from adding our touch of gloom to the general scene. And we could keep in mind that unless we succeed in keeping our own small sphere as happy, as courageous and normal as possible, there is not much hope of the larger human relationships within nations or between nations being peaceful and unselfish and healthy.

EDUCATIONAL CHANGES

Hon. Perrin Baker, Minister of Education, has announced that the committee on education will meet on June 8 and 9 to make a complete survey of the Alberta field. This survey will, it is hoped, give direction to any changes which may be deemed advisable.

In order to secure a wide range of provincial opinion, Mr. Baker has sent out a questionnaire to representative citizens, professional and non-professional, throughout Alberta. His questionnaire includes the following questions:

What should we expect to accomplish in our schools?

To what extent is the school keeping up with changing conditions, and what changes should be made to meet these conditions?

Is it possible to modify our courses in such a way as to more completely meet the needs arising from varying capacities and interests of pupils? Specify changes.

Was it a wise move to eliminate departmental examinations in the first year and part of the second year of High School? Should it be extended?

What subjects, if any, should be dropped?

What subjects, if any, should be added?

If too much time is spent on some subjects and too little on others, specify.

What else would you suggest for school improvement? The Times is not in position to argue with any assurance the merits or defects of the existing system. It does, however, believe there should be definite space on the curriculum—and a large space—for the study and discussion of social relationships. There is no disputing that the youth of today has a very live interest in matters of economics, in conditions of labor and capital, in the mechanized world and resulting adjustments in profit sharing in social credit, in trade relationships and all such topics as are absorbing and baffling adults. Why should these young people not be encouraged through the schools to broaden their knowledge of the basic causes of current social and economic conditions. Rest assured they are forming opinions and prejudices, often with all too little ground work of information. No power can stop them thinking, and it might be a good plan to encourage them to think wisely and fairly, and with greater knowledge, so that they may arrive at reasonable conclusions. Surely there are text books suitable to schools, which can give unbiased light on these questions so vital to actual everyday life.

Mathematics, ancient history and languages are no doubt important. But the problems of employment and unemployment of "human rights" and kindred matters are so overwhelmingly important and of such absorbing interest to young people, that they surely deserve a place on the school curriculum.

Added to that is the recommendation given in a recent editorial that Canadian history and geography be master subjects.

LOOKING BACKWARD

Those whose memories carry back to the early nineties will recall the furor created by a book of that period, "Looking Backward" by Edward Bellamy. The book recorded the experiences of a young man of 1887, who, under the influence of magnetism falls asleep to waken in 2000 A.D. In 2000 A.D. he finds himself in the midst of a smooth-working socialized state, operating under rules and conditions utterly unimagined in the competitive individualistic social warfare of 1887.

This book "Looking Backward," is being re-read today with the liveliest interest. In 1887, it was regarded as highly imaginative, and extraordinarily far-fetched. Today it may be accepted by an increasingly large number of people as a reasonable forecast of what may yet be and what could be. It is roughly in line with what a great number of people are thinking. That is the extent of the social progress of human beings in the past fifty years. Otherwise, although we have advanced scientifically beyond Bellamy's imaginings, our social conscience has seen little development in the past fifty years.

If you doubt it, listen to his description of society as functioning in that benighted era of 1887. "Society in these days was like a prodigious coach which the masses of humanity were harnessed to, and dragged toilsomely along a very hilly and sandy road. The driver was Hungry and permitted no lagging. The top of the coach was covered with people who never got down even at the steepest ascents. Well up out of the dust, the occupants enjoyed the scenery, or critically discussed the merits of the straining haulers. The competition for these places on the top was keen and the rule was that a man could leave his seat as an inheritance to whomever he wished. These seats were very insecure, and passengers were constantly slipping off and compelled to help drag the coach. This insecurity quite clouded the happiness of those who rode.

"When the vehicle came to a particularly bad place as it often did, the agonized plunging of the team under the lashing of hunger, the many who were trampled in the mire, made a very distressing spectacle. Those on the top would call encouragingly to the toilers, exhorting them to patience, and holding out hope of compensation in another world for their hard lot. Some even contributed salves and liniments for crippled and injured. It was agreed that it was all a great pity, but it did enhance the sense of value of having seats on the top of the coach.

"Another hallucination of those on top of the coach was that they belonged to a finer clay than their brothers and sisters who pulled. And the strangest thing was that those who had just climbed from the ground, began to fall under the influence of this hallucination before they had outgrown the marks of the rope on their hands.

"I am well aware that this will appear to the people of the twentieth century as incredibly inhuman, but one fact may explain it. It was sincerely believed that there was no other way in which society could get along, unless the many pulled the rope, and the few rode; and that no radical improvement was even possible either in the harness, the coach, the roadway, or the distribution of the toil."

It is quite a laugh on the social state of 1934, that we are still hauling the coach in the same old way.

SECESSION

It is unfortunate that the talk of secession so often comes when people are in difficulties from which they cannot escape, even by seceding. Secession has been brought to the front by British Columbia, a province that has long been dissatisfied with treatment received in the matter of tariffs, relief and general development. If the Dominion does not view this most westerly province more leniently, there is talk amongst its people of "going it alone" as the Dominion of British Columbia. The suggestion is also made that Alberta might link up with this new Dominion.

There has been not a little comment on this threat by the press of B.C. and Alberta. The comment is divided in sentiment but it is noticeable that the general tone is not particularly critical. The hopelessness of the outlook so far as Western producers is concerned, is not sweetened to any great extent by the news that Eastern business is showing distinct recovery. This is not a spirit of jealousy, but a conviction that much more attention has been paid to the welfare of Eastern manufacturers and financial interests than to marketing the products of the West. Even the hope of the British agreements made three years ago, has brought small actual result and is jeopardized by the self-sustaining policy promoted in England.

B. C. is in fighting humor, and is busy with pencil and paper, figuring what it has spent over the years in Eastern factories, on goods that might have been purchased much more cheaply elsewhere. The "donations" in the interest of Dominion solidarity have been estimated by some authorities, as equal to the Provincial debt. That is to say, that "buying Eastern Canadian" has cost B.C. as much as the debt now held over it by the Dominion and other holders.

Whether this be true or not, it is a study worthy of the statisticians. It is not conducive to brotherly affection to read the charge made by a government member in the House that "the West should remember that in the first place the East bought and paid for it."

Certainly the West has contributed fabulously to the East in freight charges, in interest, in the purchase of tariff protected goods. Certainly it could have bought much more advantageously elsewhere in the good buying years. It might be stimulating to our self-respect to have definite data on where the real obligation lies—if obligation is the word to use in a family matter.

But with the debts of the Western provinces so overwhelming and held in the present hands, the likelihood of dignified secession is remote.

McGEER'S ECONOMIC PLAN

Those who heard the address of G. G. McGeer, M.L.A. of Vancouver, as given over the radio last Saturday night were left with the uneasy feeling that the banking investigation has been slipping along too quietly for the good of the people of Canada. He referred to the big noise of the Price Spread commission which is attracting so much attention—a "red herring" crossing the trail of the immensely important banking investigation. "This committee is not properly investigating the existing monetary system" was his charge, and his arguments upheld his assertion.

Although Mr. McGeer was received with no marked

Looking at the News with Col. Hugh Clark

↑-↑-↑
Sir Patrick Hastings calls for beauty rather than efficiency in nurses. He has tired of the bed baths that make him blush, and the nurse waking him up to give him food or medicine. No doubt there is unnecessary regimentation in hospitals. That soldier in a war hospital had the right idea when he told his nurse one morning that he was too sick to have her around that day. The classic instance of dumb diligence is that of the nurse who woke up a patient to give him a sleeping powder. But that is probably an invention. In peace as in war, nurses have earned the right to be regarded as ministering angels. We compromise with Sir Patrick by admitting that if a nurse is good-looking we can tolerate her efficiency.

↑-↑-↑
If some want to get up and go to work an hour earlier, why should others object? That morning hour has a freshness and a beauty of its own which is missed by those who remain abed. The curious thing, however, is that some of the objectors are themselves up at daybreak.

↑-↑-↑
The gold tax which raised such a row has had one good effect. It has put the big producers into the notion that it is advisable to pay out more profits in dividends rather than retain them to swell the reserve. In this way the government will get some more revenue through the shareholders' income taxes.

↑-↑-↑
Newspapers publishing the love letters of Dickens to another man's wife explain that the two met after they had been married for many years and add "Just where and how they met no one knows, nor is it at all necessary that we intrude upon the privacy of that meeting." Such tender delicate solicitude is indeed touching.

COOPERATION IN HOPPER FIGHT

If Farmers Do Not Co-operate in Hopper Fight, Weed Fight, Soil Drift Work is Useless

It isn't of much use for a majority of farmers in a district to fight the grasshoppers if there is a considerable minority which does nothing about it. The young hoppers thrive on the non-poisoned crop, and when they have cleaned it up they move over onto the neighbor's crop which has escaped damage.

Here is one place where co-operation throughout a district can be carried on and where it will get results. Another place where co-operation is needed is in fighting soil drifting. One farmer sets up a scheme, either stripping his land or some other effective plan, and his neighbor to the west does nothing about it. Drifting soil is no respecter of persons. It drifts off the land to the west over on to land which is still holding. The action of the drifted soil sets up drifting again on land which would under ordinary circumstances, hold.

We hear a lot about co-operation these days, but we can't expect to co-operate as an industry over the whole nation until we learn to co-operate as individuals within our community.—Lethbridge Herald.

Visitors from the United States protest vigorously and threaten boycott because their money is under a slight discount here, but, no doubt, Canadians visiting in the United States in recent years felt the same way when the conditions were reversed and they had to accept a discount on good Canadian money. We got used to it at last and our U.S. visitors will do the same.

COMMENT ON THIS BEWILDERED WORLD

Frazier Hunt's New Book Recommended To All, Will His "Way Out" Come True?

Under the title "This Bewildered World, and its search for a new rhythm," Frazier Hunt incorporates in his recently published book, his interpretation of what he himself has observed in the various countries of Europe and Asia in his journalistic travels of the past few years. His work is the result of no superficial survey, but a measured summing up of observations, following periodic visits to these far places and intimate association with the great and small therein.

The book is written in entrancing style. It carries the reader not into an abstract tedious study of far off countries, but into a friendly understanding visit amongst the neighbors—neighbors, who with few exceptions are "bewildered." Suffering through internal strife or external dominance, bewildered as we ourselves are bewildered, differing only in the nature of their problems, the same in their human reactions.

Japan, Manchuria, China, Siam, India, Turkey, Italy, Germany, France, England, Russia, United States, all are touched upon. In the writer's opinion only Russia is unbewildered, driving ahead vigorously and clearly. Mr. Hunt makes no secret of his admiration for the Soviet conceptions, and there is a vigor and a hope running through his presentation of the Russian development, that the reader cannot fail to note.

He says: "Here, truly there is an appalling amount of labor to be done, but the most important part—the psychological part has been completed. The masses are really free. They are all equal, peers. In some ways the Soviet Union is still fifty years behind, in other ways 50 years ahead. While America and the rest of the world, suffer from unemployment, every man there has a job and enough to eat. While America flounders in a sea of uncertainty because of over-production and under consumption, the Soviet grimly tackles the problem of under production and over consumption. Alone of all nations of the world, she is sure in her own heart that she has discovered and is working out the one machine that time will serve only to make stronger and more attractive. She sings while she works and dreams. These giants who have cut the trail, would create a new human being who is without envy willing to live in a world touched by the religion of true brotherhood.

"But it is a revolution only half won. It is still a hard and crushing dictatorship, and may so continue until the final memory of the old competitive life is forgotten. It has yet to produce its true Socialism."

In treating of his own United States, Mr. Hunt is unparing. He opens up the iniquities of the past, the avarice and greed that has paved the way to the present. His allegiance turns wholeheartedly to the struggle of Roosevelt, Wallace and others for the Forgotten Man. There is hope, he feels, "in the present," and his concluding chapter "The Promised Land of the Future," brings visions of what might be, if avarice, greed and selfishness could be purged from human beings. Or to start with if these vicious qualities were even controlled—not only amongst the great but amongst all of us.

It is quite possible that all his readers may not agree with the inferences Mr. Hunt may draw from his observations. But no one can read it, without realizing more clearly "the brotherhood of man" and without admiring the courage, sincerity and ability of the author in presenting his picture of "this bewildered world."

From Chilliwack Progress: "British Columbia may be expected to hit a strong, even stride toward something or other, now that we have our colorful political premier and our crusading legislator economist with us again."

Practically everyone who is getting gray or bald headed remembers the Marks Brothers theatrical troupe, and their versatility in the dramatic field. Well, one of the Marks boys is now contesting in the Ontario provincial election against W.E.N. Sinclair, former Liberal leader. He should be able to work up his audience.

GRASSHOPPER WAR ON WESTERN FRONT

News Despatches of Can. Press Tell of 2000 Mile-Battle Front

The full power of governments and municipalities is engaged in the war against grasshoppers in the prairie provinces. This is said to be the third general attack of this pest in the central part of the continent.

Costs of combat are estimated at $750,000, with $500,000 of this to be spent in Saskatchewan.

In Southern Alberta, the first stations were opened two weeks ago and the southern part of the province as well as Drumheller, Hanna and Coronation is seriously menaced.

Saskatchewan has 1000 mixing stations in 200 municipalities, equipped with 10,000 tons of bran, 16,000 gallons sodium arsenite, and 1000 cars of sawdust.

The most serious area of infestation in Southern Manitoba is the Deloraine district.

The areas of attack are estimated as including 60 per cent of the Saskatchewan crop, 40 per cent of Alberta crop and 25 per cent of Manitoba crop. It is believed that organized campaign will reduce loss to 10 per cent.

ALTA'S FAVORABLE MUNICIPAL STAND

Is Close Second to Maritimes, Municipalities Have Only Quarter of One Per Cent Funded Debt in Default

In the current issue of the Financial Times, Alberta is given recognition as having the second lowest record in the Dominion in the matter of default of funded debt.

The three Maritime Provinces have the enviable record of practically no defaults. There have been one or two isolated cases of tardy payments of coupons, but on the whole the default record of the Maritimes is the best in Canada. They are closely followed by Alberta, where there is believed to be about $150,000 of funded debt in default out of a total of nearly $77,000,000, a ratio of less than one-quarter of one per cent.

Ontario has the dubious distinction of leading all provinces in the amount of total municipal debt and in gross funded debt of municipalities in default. The lead is but also relative, approximately 19.8 per cent of the funded debt of Ontario municipalities being in default, according to estimate made by The Financial Post.

Some 10.9 per cent of the gross funded debt of Canadian municipalities in the hands of the public was in default at the end of 1933, it is estimated by The Financial Post. Gross funded debt of municipalities in default is estimated at $141,650,000, and total funded debt of all municipalities at about $1,300,000,000.

The proportion of defaults still leaves 89.1 per cent of the municipal bonds of the country in good standing. But the increase in the past year, due largely to the spread of defaults in Ontario, is considered heavy.

Alberta's System
Alberta—Supervises the affairs of defaulting municipalities through the Provincial Board of Public Utility Commissioners. The board scrutinizes assessments, taxation, and budget estimates, and must approve same before they are valid. Supervision may be provided for municipalities in which a compromise or refunding scheme concerning debt has been arranged.

The provincial board, when default occurs, makes a survey of conditions. In small municipalities, it is frequently found that advice is nearly all that is necessary to rectify the situation.

In cases where municipalities have got into deeper water, the board endeavors to ascertain the municipality's ability to pay, and arranges a compromise with bondholders. Two methods of adjustment may be followed. The first is, with conservative bondholders, to completely refund debentures and arrears, by issuing securities under the annuity plan, providing for retirement of equal installments of principal and interest. The second, designed to handle temporary financial difficulties, provides for consolidation of arrears of principal and interest and of the next two or three annual payments and for issuing of refunding debentures for the amount of this combined debt. The bulk of unmatured debt is not disturbed.

Wife: "John, I gave you this letter to mail a month ago, and I just found it in your plaid coat pocket." Hubby: "I remember. I took off the coat at the time to have you sew on a button and it isn't sewed on yet."

ERADICATION OF SOW THISTLES

Farmers who wish to keep their land free from sow thistle are advised to obtain an authentic booklet on this subject, available at all line country elevators. This booklet is compiled by Dr. McRostie of the University of Manitoba, in Agriculture. The survey by many research workers was conducted over a three year period financed by the North West Grain Dealers' Association.

The booklet deals with the plant, distribution in the West, origin of the weed; methods of spreading through seed and root system; the manner of damage caused by Sow Thistles; tables showing the average reduction in yield of wheat plants growing at different distances from Sow Thistle plants; methods of control through cultivation; use of chemicals and growth of sweet clover in areas where it is not necessary to summer-fallow to conserve moisture in combatting Sow Thistle growth.

TELEPHONE 131 VULCAN, ALBERTAGENERAL NEWS

When Chambers of Commerce undertake to lecture governments about their financial operations they are likely to be startled by the smashing of glass for they live in a house made of that material. They scolded the Federal government for not balancing its budget and Hon. H. H. Stevens tells them they had better discipline their own members first. He reminds them that big business men encouraged governments to embark upon costly but unprofitable enterprises. He tells them of business men who pay such small wages that the government has to supplement them from the relief funds. He refused to let them forget that some of them had formed mergers that are not now balancing their budgets. Critics have to be mighty careful these days.

Efforts will be made in Calgary to stamp out the "donations" rackets. Merchants are continually being solicited for donations of goods and cash. If the merchants and wholesalers are agreed these requests will be turned over to the secretary of the board of trade for reference to a special committee. Persons or organizations seeking these donations will be asked to furnish the secretary with statements of what the money is being raised for, how much was raised in the previous year and how the money was spent. The bureau members emphasized strongly that they were wholly in favor of supporting certain well-known charities and community organizations which were doing excellent work in the city, but strongly objected to "the eternal chiselling of small organizations."

Ralph Pritchard has been selected by the Vulcan Maroons softball team as their coach for the season. He has accepted the position. Being an old time baseball hurler in years past he is expected to mould the team into an excellent playing group before the end of the season.

KIRKCALDY NEWS

J. D. Hagerman was a business visitor in Calgary Friday.

Mr. Dayle Dunbar was a business visitor in Lethbridge Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Markert and family were Calgary visitors Friday.

Mrs. Henry Todd spent Saturday in Vulcan as the guest of Mrs. Shimp.

Mrs. Bob Middleton and new baby girl returned home from the municipal hospital Thursday.

Miss Gertrude Roebuck was a guest at the Wm. Peters' home over the week end.

Mrs. T. Martin and family returned home after a month's visit in north-eastern Alberta.

Mr. North of Calgary spent a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Markert last week.

The many friends of Mr. Guy Daw will be sorry to learn that he is a patient in the Vulcan hospital.

Lorene Market spent the week end in Vulcan as the guest of Miss Annie Hubka of Vulcan.

Katie Colwell spent a couple of days in Vulcan, this week, Miss Bantlin returning as her guest over the holiday.

The residents of our fair town deserted the village to take in the Vulcan sports, May 24th. A good time was reported by all.

Mrs. W. J. Saunders returned home Saturday after spending the past two weeks as a patient in the Vulcan hospital.

C. and O. Gallaway accompanied by Mrs. Streetch of Red Deer spent the week end at their parents' home in the district, returning to the northern city Tuesday morning.

Latest reports from the hospital are that Mrs. Bill Lawrie is making splendid recovery from her recent operation and expects to be back in her old home this week end.

James Taylor of Banff was a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Laing. Mrs. Laing accompanied Mr. Taylor on the return trip and will spend a short holiday in the mountain resort.

The old swimming hole on Bert Maisey's land near town is being well patronized these hot days. While there is no running water it remains quite fresh affording the town children with lots of fun and exercise. An adult, usually S. Colwell is in attendance to see that the little folks do not get into difficulties.

It appears to the writer that with a little co-operation from all the clubs and other organizations that a cement swimming pool could be built in Vulcan at small cost. Built so that it could be drained and with a well and pump, operated by a windmill fresh water would be always assured. It would certainly afford the little folks and adults a great deal of pleasure. At a low cost, as at present large numbers of people are unable to go to the swimming holes as the distance is too great. If located in the town it could be used as a water supply for fire prevention, possibly affecting fire insurance rates downward. Get going Vulcan, lots of help from this point in excavating, etc. is assured.

Sponsored by the Elks' as Part of Victoria Day Celebrations

May the 24th celebration really started on the evening of May the 23rd and continued into the early hours of the Victoria Day with dancing in the Oddfellows' hall. The Elks' lodge sponsored the affair, as they did the entire day of sport. Music was provided on the Wednesday evening by Len Davis and His Royal Arcadians. They pleased a well-filled hall with many of the newer dance tunes. This dance was patronized mostly by local people, while on Thursday the hall was packed with people from every point in the district, many from Calgary and Lethbridge. Joe Tomte and His Gay Melodians played the music for the second evening, the Arcadians having a date to fill at Hussar. Both were gala occasions and everyone had a splendid time.

courtesy by the Banking Commission the questions which he asked seemed quite in order.

He wanted to know the gross cost to the people of Canada of the private money system, the cost of financing governments through the private banking system. He wanted statements of loans, overdrafts and advances made to corporations on which bank directors were sitting as directors or interested parties. He wanted the wealth of bank directors disclosed. "The Bank of Canada, as proposed is nothing but a branch bank of the Bank of England, modelled on the antiquated ideas that came into being with the English Bank Act of 1844," said Mr. McGeer.

"Administration of currency and credit is now recognized as the nation's most important public utility and the day is past when the economic blood stream of the social order can be left to the profit seeking desires of men, who are not Gods but usurers."

Mr. McGeer's four point program which he submitted to the banking committee, and which received little consideration was (1) a national banking system administering to the service of the people; (2) Taxation to prevent the accumulation of money and credit by groups; (3) a department of economic control, empowered to adjust wages, working conditions, production, distribution, competition, public works and social services within the bounds of reason; (4) a department of international credit and trade management. Goods and services should be secured from other countries in equal volume to the value of goods and services given to them.
